1. Claims 8-21 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse in the reply filed on 8/26/2005.

2. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

3. Claims 1-7 are objected to because of the following informalities:

in claims 1 and 5, last line, the applicant claims the seam confronting the electrode is upstream or downstream of a first direction which is confusing since it must be upstream or downstream of a position not a general direction.

in claim 4, line 1 change "imag" to --image--.. Appropriate correction is required.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 1 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yu et al. '136

Yu et al. '136 teach an image forming apparatus comprising a flexible belt 10 supported by a plurality of rollers (col.12, lines 34-36) and having a seam 30 which extends obliquely relative to the direction of rotation of the belt (see Fig.5). A cleaning device contacts the flexible belt (col.14, line 38). An electrode portion for grounding the belt is located on a marginal side region (col.8, lines 44-50). Specifically, Yu et al. does not specify whether the seam confronting the electrode portion would be upstream or downstream (although it must be one or the other). However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to angle the seam in either direction since this does not seem to be a critical aspect of the invention since applicant claims both and it would appear to equivalent structures for the purpose of forming an image.

5. Claims 2-4,6-7 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Schlueter, Jr. et al., Foltz et al., Yu et al. '290, Mishra et al, Tabuchi, Koizumi (JP) and Yamazaki (JP) all teach various belt with electrodes or seams.

7. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Robert Beatty whose telephone number is (571) 272-2130. The examiner can normally be reached on M-F from 9 to 6.
